We'll Remember . . .

As students look back on the years they spent roaming the halls of Middlebury High School, communicating with fellow M.H.S. students, and participating in various activities, they can't help but feel a longing in their hearts to relive those golden moments. Hardships such as book reports, term papers, exams, dodging teachers in the halls, running through the to the office for tardy ellps, seem minute as students recall M.H.S. school days.

The future holds in store a new high school with new facilities. Northridge will offer more opportunities, better facilities, and in general more room to move around.

Proms, class plays, convocations, ball games, parties, musicals, concerts, play days, pictures, and just being with friends, will always linger in the hearts of previous M. H.S. sudents. The tears that are shed will be tears of happiness as we remember our school days at M.H.S.

Team Ends Middle Era with Winning Season

The Middlebury Mikhes finished their basketball career with a fine 14--6 season. Since this was the last year for MHS, the die era in fine style. Some of the outstanding players included brothers Steve and Doug Yoder, who led the team in scoring respectively. Other fine players were Jim Shoup, who was third in team scoring. Tom Sherck, a scrappy guard, and Jay Bistline, who was the tram's tallest at 6'3". Carl Eash, a fine defensive guard, and Tom Aukins, a relief center, added in the Middie line-up. Doug will return next year aided by classmate Galen Hershberger who proved to be a defensive coach's dream as he stopped leading opponents throughout the season. Another fine prospect was freshman Dean Weirich,

The B-Team ran a rough and rugged schedule as they prepared for the upcoming days at Northridge. They proved me be a great hazard to their opponents. The highlight of their season proved to be the victory over Fairfield in the finals of the Elkhart Count B-Team ourney.

The Freshman basketball team experiencest a very good season this year. They looked very promising to the fans who will support them next year at Northridge.

Math and Science, Important Tools in the Luboratory is an important part of any science program. Here scientific observations are being made by senior Bruce Sellers and eighth grader David Volgehaug.

Being able to apply mathematical formulas it very important. Mark Frederick and Steve Violer are demonstrating the application of two formulas to their classes.

Rapid Development of Our Space Age World

The science and mathematics departments offered numerous courses to the Middlebury student this year. In math they ranged from General Math to Introductory Analysis. In science they ranged from General Science to Physics.

The main objective of the math courses was to help sudents ready themselves for college and for their future after their high school graduation. To some, math and science were just required subjects which they managed to stumble through and pass. For others, who realized their responsibilities were not only responsibilities for their future for the result of interesting and sometimes executing of interesting and sometimes executing.

The main objective of the science department is to help educate for college but mainly for life after graduation. It showed how science plays a part of everyday life and taught the students how to apply science to every day life.

For a special project is government Larry Yoder was required to portray a senator from Alaska.

Students Learn the Business Dilemma

The business students at Middlebury High School were kept quite busy this year.

The typing I classes were introduced to the typewriters, while the typing II classes learned to use the dietaphones, procedures in filing, and adding machines.

Those interested in secretarial jobs worked hard as shorthand I. There was no shorthand II this year. The bookkeeping class learned to balance ledgers and journals. They had two practice sets besides being confronted with tax returns.

Much more was also involved m preparing the students for future careers.

Students Discover Need for Good Health

The study of the body and its functions is a factinating experience as M.H.S. health students can verify. Mental health as well as physical health was studied and discussed. The students learned the importance of good health and the tragedies with various diseases.

While the development of the mind was stressed in health classes, physical education courses helped to develop the body. Barcitses were a common way to start the period while accurate sincluded volleyball, basketball softball, numbling, wrestling, and jumping on the trampoline. Through participation, students also learned the code of sond bortsmanship.

Spanish Club: a Club of Spanish Customs

All second and third year spanish students who are interested in broadening their knowledge of the Spanish language have the opportunity of being in Spanish Club.

During meetings students have the chance to norcease their understanding of the Spanish language through communication with other students. This is accomplished by having discussions and participating in games which require the use of the language.

Spanish Club field trips are taken to give members the opportunity to visit "Spanish speaking" districts, and taste various Spanish foods.

The Spanish Club holds its meetings during activity period, and is sponsored by Miss Hoover, who heads the department.

Librarians Assist Inquisitive M.H.S. Students

The student librarians proved to be a very important factor for all who warred to use the library. They assisted Mrs. Smith m man with tasks necessary to keep the library m a top notch condition. They helped the students in many ways. Some of these included, checking out books, collecting library these, and keeping shelves in neat order.

They also assisted students in finding reference materials and special matters which were kept on reserve. The student librarians could choose to receive a credit by taking library science. These credits are better.

The librarians also had a chance to join

The Youth For Christ offered a spiritual atmosphere to the school oay. Special unnovations to the YFC Club were the bunsen burner and gire-throwing machine. Skits. musical groups, special speakers, filme, and parties all had a place in the YFC Club. Many high school students attended these meetings.

Student assistants helped in many ways. Besides delivering daily bulletins, students also collected records and lunch count. Still others served as assistants in the cateteria. Numerous errands arose which were taken care of by these student as sistants.

The Audio Visual Club proved its worth by assisting the teachers in showing films. Mr. Welling taught this group of boys to operate the school's audio-visual materials.

Team Supporters Led Middies To Victory

The combined efforts of the Pep Club and the cheer leaders inspired school spirit among the M.H.S. Students. Blue and white shakers were o new innovation of the cheerblocks. White carrations with blue "M"s" were wore by Pep Club members at the tourneys.

Their Midshipman mascot. Tommy Hellinga, was featured at the home games. A new attraction this year was a hoop, designed differently for each game, through which the players entered the gymnasium.

The masculine voices of the Booster Club strengthened the Cheer Block. Together with the Pep Club, they cheered the Middies through many victories. Others Club. FIRST ROW: Steve Breaker, Mark Frederick; Robert Woods. SECONI- ROW: Harold Stuttman; Dour Barwick; Wayne Stabungh; Howard Cross.

Middlebury High School welcomed back an old triend in the Instrumental Department this year--Mr. Shafer.

Last fall he immediately began working with the marching band so that only a couple weeks after school started they could participate as the activities of High School Day at Bell State University.

The concert band mer each day to develop its skills in instrumental music. The Pep Band, composed of volunteers from the Senior Band, provided peppy half-time music for the season's basketball games.

The Stage Band proved to be very enjoyable for its members this year. Their music included a lot of hit tunes. They were featured at the Fall and spring concerts and at a few concerts of their own.

The Senior Band and the Stage Band displayed their talent at band contest where individual talent was also displayed as members participated m solos or easem-

Time and Effort Required for Jr. High Band

Music is playing a large part in everyone's life now days. To help stintents recognize and develope their musical talents, we provide a Junior High hand program here at M.H.S.

Under the direction of Larry Shafer, the hand practiced daily. Private lessons were required to aid in full comprehension of the various rhythms, and note fingerings which sometimes created problems

Throughout the year the Junor Highband performed in the Spring and Fall concerts with High School band. They also spen much time preparing several numbers for several.

Frosh & Sophomores Learn Basic Voice Skills

Under the direction of Mrs. Rochsettler, sixty some (reshmen and sophomores learned to train their voices for (uture years in the Jusior and Senior choir. This was done through their choir periods as well as practice on each Individual's own time.

The choir participated m several concerts during the year, some m which were the Spring and Fall concerts. All were thoroughly enjoyed by those who attended.

Starting in February, moss of the students aided in the preparation and performance of "My Pair Lady," which was presented by the music department. Some helped on various committees, while others were in dancing or singing groups. With their belp and co-operation the musical was a success.

The experience and information gained throughout this year will prove valuable to each student in future years. Standards bearing the lastic skells of voice training during these client periods.

Exchange Students Affect Lives of M.H.S. Seniors

Dennis Rheinheim

In our senior year, we as a class, have noticed the absence of one of our steadfast members. Dennis Rhein-heimer has been spending the year as an exchange student to Sweden.

In this strange and new country. Dennis is experiencing many of the joys and frustrations that are a part of growing up and taking on responsibility.

It seems that in this country as an exchange student

Dennis finds that parties and school, sports and girls mothers and fathers are just as vital and real as at home

> It was really quite a change for me, coming from Dusseldori which is considered as one of the largest cities in Germany, to a small town like Middlebury.

Although there are many things ulike between the European countries and the U.S., the schools are surprisingly ufferent. Last September, for the first time in my life, I had the privilege as the choose my own subjects. Coing to a different room for each subject, doing homeworkin study halls, having boys at school, and eating in the caferefia—all that was new for me. And how much do Ilike the long weekends' in Germany we have to go on school every Sturrday.

I was amazed by the fact that here a Americal he shool is not only for studying, as it is in Germany, but that it also provides fin and recreation. The extracurriculum activities are an excellent way to develop your talent art, music, language, sports, or acting. At this point lectrating have to mention backerball. The words "Hoosier Hysteria" are the exact way to describe the sudents' enthusiasm for this sport. Never before enthusiasm for this sport. Never before half seen a school that showed so much spirit and loyalty towards its ream than M.H.S. diff or the "muley Middies".

So, coming to a conclusion I should say that in spite of, or better, because of, the many differences in the school, this year at M.H.S. has been a rich experience that I will remember.

Class of '69 Experienced Mingled Emotions

Forty-eight Seniors, mighty fine. they're the class of '69' Majestic moments, mixedemotions, anticipation, and arrogant pride were all captured in the hearts of Sentors. Smiling faces and high spirits were displayed by the Seniors as they realized that this was their last year together and the last year for M.S.H.

Tests, term papers, book reports, labs, basketball games, and other acrivities were all things m the past.

For many Seniors, time seemed to fly. Graduation came all too soon, and with it came tears of happiness and tears of sadness.

The Class Play, the Prom, Senior keys, pictures, and finally graduation were all highlights of the Senior year, which will long be cherished by all!

They received many new privileges, but along with these came new responsibilities.

The junior's first big event was their magazine sales. They displayed great salesmanship ability in setting a new and undisputable record.

In the first part of the year they received their class rings and also appointed a prom committee which made plans for this big event. The committee worked hard and progressed steadily for the big day. The prom turned out to be a splendid and memorable occusion which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone attending.

The last fund-raising activity before the prom was the Junior Class Play. Long alghts of hard practice made it very successful.

Class of '73 Bids Farewell to Jr. High

The eighth moders were just a little more confident of themselves this year as they watched their Jr. High days come to

They were no longer the youngest students finding their ways from class to class. They could feel superior in the seventh graders.

The eighth grade class, like the other classes, had the opportunity of enjoying roller skating parties, ball games, and other activities at M.H.S. They had a team, entirely their own, to support this year.

Thoughit has been an exciting and busy year for the eighth graders they anxiously look torward to the added activities and fun of their high school career at Northridge.

Seventh Graders Join in Activities of M.H.S.

The seventh graders entered fr. High with uncertainty and doubts. They had to become accustomed to their new class-rooms and teachers. They quickly adapted to fr. High life and found it to be exciting.

The seventh grade basketbull team was hard working and eager to earn a name for itself. As a result, they were victorious in most their games.

The seventh graders enjoyed participating in some of the High School activities, 100. Skating parties were a new experience.

Many challenges confronted the seventh graders. There were tests, book reports, and numcrous studies. Experience is the best teachers, and as they are getting plenty of it, near year they will be ready to accept more responsibility, attent more activities, and apply themselves more thoroughly.

he seconthygrade classifficers are as follows: Provident - Wanda Rennet, Vice Presidents-Greg Ender, Secretary-

"What Is Past I Know, But What Is for To Come I Know Not." —2 Esdras. IV. 46

In the past decade plus, we have faced many obstacles. Some were conquered; others remain to be overcome.

Through the experiences in which we have participated, we have gained insights and character traits which will be of great value to us in the future. We have gained knowledge of importance of leadership, scholarship, sportsmanship, friendship, and loyafty. These have been gained him.

continue to develop. These we will use in the next step of our lives.

Although this world methode to us in a condition which is rather unappealing this same condition should stimulate a desire to improve it. Along with the education we have obtained, this desire will create the motivation to meet the challenges of world building.

We as editors of this final MIDDIETTE, would like to take this opportunity to thank all who have done so much to help us meet our deadlines and provide us with materials, etc. Through this experience we have learned much about responsibility.

A special thanks goes to copy editors, Don Miller and Larry Yoder: business managers, Parti Kindy and Ruth Troyer: and to our photographer, Brice Bock. All have spent long hours during and outside of school to help provide you with a yearbook filled with memories

We want to thank our adviser, Mary Hoover, for her co-operation and fine direction. We'd also like me thank the administration, faculty, and students who responded to our pleas for help.

We hope that this yearbook will bring pleasure to all who look at it in the years to come.
